Darling Wife:-

Just received your darling letter of Sunday and can assure you that if all goes as planned we will be together on May 3rd. Honey love, I sure do wish you were here already.

I sure am sorry that you had such bad weather. Sunday was terrelly here; part of Memphis was entirely flooded, practically speaking. Rained and rained all day. All day I just hung around the store and sneaked in and out from one moving picture house to another. How did you enjoy the speech made by Carrie's sister? Hope you enjoyed it.

Honey love, I certainly am sorry you didn't enjoy the picture show. Don't you worry, you just keep on going to different places and enjoy yourself as much as possible. Hear? Darling mine, take good care of yourself, for when, please God, you come here we will make up for lost time. What do you say, sweetheart?

Sorle last night I went to the lodge and took a lecture preparing myself for the final exam before I can take the next degree. I sure did surprise the lecturer for when I came there I recited the whole thing by heart as Uncle Morris studied with me until I knew it. The lecturer sure was pleased that I knew my stuff! As a matter of fact, he couldn't believe it when I told him that I was ready. I sure do hope I can go through the rest of the degrees. Under separate cover, I am sending you a convention book of the lodge. Tell me what you think of the place. I am sure hoping that soon, very soon, you will be able to personally see it.

Honey, this is ~~a~~ necessarily a short, very short letter, but if you could only see how many people are here, you would be surprised that I found write this much, but tomorrow I hope I will get your big letter and then I'll waste time to answer with a nice big letter.

Shall close now, precious love, with all my love, kisses and tight and tight hugs,

Ever lovingly your own hubby,

Joe
